

Alyssa Marie Monteleon, Esq. is an estate planning and elder law attorney at the Monteleon Law Group, PLLC. She helps families, individuals, and couples plan wisely and make important legal decisions related to growing older. Alyssa earned her law degree from Touro Law Center and a Master of Laws (LL.M) in Estate Planning and Elder Law from Western New England University. Alyssa is admitted to practice in Virginia and New York. In addition, Alyssa received her Master of Science in Counseling from Mercy College where her graduate work focused on working with young adults with Asperger's Syndrome. Alyssa grew up as the child of an incarcerated parent and now practices law with her father, who successfully earned his law degree, his license to practice law, and a Master of Laws in Taxation and in Trial Advocacy after returning to the community from serving time in a federal correction institute.